From the Pastor

Series on the Mass, Part 59

The Pater Noster: Who Art in Heaven. "Who art in Heaven": St. John Chrysostom in commenting on these words says: "It is not that God is only in heaven, but for the sake of us stuck here below, we ought to lift up our eyes to heaven to admire the beauty of the things which await us." The Catechism of the Council of Trent confirms this: "All who have a correct idea of God will grant that He is everywhere and in all places. This is not to be taken in the sense that He is distributed into parts and that He occupies and governs one place with one part and another place with another part. God is a Spirit, and therefore utterly incapable of division into parts."

So why do we look to the heavens? The Catechism goes on to explain that the heavens, which we see above us, are the noblest part of the world; they remain incorruptible, surpass all other bodies in power, grandeur and beauty, and are endowed with fixed and regular motion. So when we look to heaven we more easily contemplate God's infinite power and majesty. Therefore, when we pray, let us keep in mind the image of God reigning in heaven so we can have the confidence and trust in His infinite power. We should also keep in mind that all the things we ask for in prayer should have some reference to heaven, where we hope to be some day also. St. Paul confirms this in writing to the Colossians: "If you be risen with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is sitting at the right hand of God. Mind the things that are above, not the things that are upon the earth." (Col. 3:1-2).

Sincerely in Christ,

Rev. Charles Van Vliet, FSSP

Men's Recollection Every Third Friday of the Month
